

amidus.com

thinking of utilizing solar energy and need independent advice?

as your consultant, we get you the highest return on your solar investment due diligence & project development

- independent technical and financial due diligence
- site selection and evaluation
- site energy resource assessment
- investigation of key technical, environmental, and planning constraints
- identification of candidate technology
- initial layout design and financial modelling
- recommended next steps

design and review

- project sizing and design optimization
- equipment specification
- pre-contract documentation, specifications and negotiations; contract review
- financial modeling including capital costs, power purchase agreement (PPA), and operational expenditure (OPEX)

- planning application advice, guidance, and completion financing

- develop project financial structure to suit owner's tax and liquidity requirements
- bring in external capital from specialized investors installation

- technical advisor and owner's representative
- project and site management
- design review
- quality assurance inspections and factory acceptance tests
- built to specifications comparisons
- witnessing of commissioning, and issuing of hand-over certificates operation & maintenance

- develop operation and maintenance schedule
- post investment appraisal of projects
- asset management, inspection and monitoring
- warranty and contract management
- end of manufacturer warranty inspections and audits
- failure prediction and management
- site safety management monetization strategy

- identifying the most advantageous solar renewable energy certificate (SREC), tax, energy sales, and entity structure

amidus

www.amidus.com solar@amidus.com

1450 S Rolling Rd.
Baltimore, MD 21227

